On December 7, 2005, the Honorable James Ware issued the “Further Claim Construction Order; Order Finding Claims Terms Indefinite And Claims Invalid” (“Order”). In the Order, the Court found, among other things, the following:

1. that the claim term “sequence encoder,” which appears in independent claims 1 and 17 and in dependent claims 18 and 32, of U.S. Patent No. 6,144,702 (“the ‘702 patent”), is indefinite;
2. that the claim term “identification encoder,” which appears in independent claims 1, 17, and 27 and in dependent claims 5, 6, 19, and 31 of the ‘702 patent, is indefinite; and
3. that the claim phrase “transmission system at a first location,” which appears in independent claims 1, 17, and 27 of the ‘702 patent, means “a transmission system at one particular location separate from the location of the reception system.”

Although this MDL proceeding involves claims for patent infringement by Acacia regarding five related U.S. Patents, Nos. 5,132,992; 5,253,275; 5,550,863; 6,002,720; and the '720 patent, the claim terms "sequence encoder," "identification encoder," and "transmission system at a first location," do not appear in any of the claims of these four patents. These claim terms appear only in the claims of the '702 patent.

The parties agree that the effect of the Court's finding that the term "sequence encoder" in claims 1, 17, 18, and 32 is indefinite and finding that the term "identification encoder" in claims 1, 17, and 27 is indefinite, if upheld on appeal, would be to render all of the claims of the '702 patent (claims 1-42) indefinite, and therefore invalid, under 35 U.S.C. § 112, ¶ 2.

The parties also agree that the effect of the Court's construction of the phrase "transmission system at a first location" in claims 1, 17, and 27 of the '702 patent as meaning "a transmission system at one particular location separate from the location of the reception system," if upheld on appeal, would be to render all of the claims of the '702 patent (claims 1-42) not infringed by the transmission systems made, used, or sold by the defendants in this case which are located at more than one location.

Accordingly, the parties to the cases listed below agree and request entry of summary

1 judgment of: (1) invalidity for indefiniteness of claims 1-42 of the '702 patent on the basis that the 2 Court has found that the terms "sequence encoder" and "identification encoder" of claims 1-42 of 3 the '702 patent are indefinite; and (2) for non-infringement of claims 1-42 the '702 patent on the 4 basis that the Court has construed the phrase "transmission system at a first location" to mean "a 5 transmission system at one particular location separate from the location of the reception system,"
6 which would thereby cause claims 1-42 of the '702 to not be infringed by transmission systems
7 made, used, or sold by defendants which are located at more than one location. This Summary
8 Judgment is without prejudice as to all rights of Acacia on appeal and without prejudice to Acacia
9 asserting that claims 1-42 of the '702 patent are valid and infringed by defendants should Acacia
10 prevail in its appeal.

11 THEREFORE, IT IS ADJUDICATED, as a matter of law, that Plaintiff Acacia shall take 12 nothing as to all defendants listed below on its claim for infringement of its '702 patent, and that, as 13 to all defendants listed below, the Court shall enter Summary Judgment of: (1) invalidity of claims
14 1-42 for indefiniteness on the basis that the Court has found that the terms "sequence encoder" and 15 "identification encoder" of claims 1-42 of the '702 patent are indefinite; and (2) non-infringement of 16 claims 1-42 on the basis that the Court has construed the phrase "transmission system at a first 17 location" to mean "a transmission system at one particular location separate from the location of the 18 reception system," which would thereby cause claims 1-42 of the '702 to not be infringed by 19 transmission systems made, used, or sold by defendants which are located at more than one location.
20 The entry of this Summary Judgment is without prejudice to Acacia's rights as outlined above.

21 There is no just cause for delay, and thus the Court directs entry of this judgment pursuant to
